

PRINT OUT ON A4 SHEET. CUT OUT, FOLD IN HALF and PLACE IN YOUR WALLET

FOLD
HERE

- While waiting for a rescuer or before taking an injured animal to a vet:
- Cover the animal with a towel or blanket and remove from threats.
 - Do not attempt to pick up a bat or snake - wait for expert assistance.
 - Keep the animal calm and safe by placing it in a ventilated cardboard box, covered cage or similar.
 - Keep the animal in a warm, quiet, dark and undisturbed place.
 - DO NOT offer any food or water (unless advised by a vet or wildlife carer).
 - Contact a wildlife care service. If this isn't possible, take the injured animal to a nearby vet ASAP.
 - If you see a dead marsupial, always check the pouch for a living joey.

How to help an injured native animal

Organisation:

Phone:

Photo by David Finlay

FOLD
HERE

- While waiting for a rescuer or before taking an injured animal to a vet:
- Cover the animal with a towel or blanket and remove from threats.
 - Do not attempt to pick up a bat or snake - wait for expert assistance.
 - Keep the animal calm and safe by placing it in a ventilated cardboard box, covered cage or similar.
 - Keep the animal in a warm, quiet, dark and undisturbed place.
 - DO NOT offer any food or water (unless advised by a vet or wildlife carer).
 - Contact a wildlife care service. If this isn't possible, take the injured animal to a nearby vet ASAP.
 - If you see a dead marsupial, always check the pouch for a living joey.

How to help an injured native animal

Organisation:

Phone:

Photo by David Finlay

